It's All About Connect

CloudBlue Connect is the world's most powerful ecosystem management distribution as a service (DaaS) platform with the support for both recurring (subscriptions) and one-time (physical & licensing) products. Connect provides a catalog and channel management solution that simplifies and unifies your indirect and direct channel operations as well as procurement, inventory management, order fulfillment, and more. Use Connect to boost efficiency, speed time to revenue and establish a scalable business quickly.

Connect provides a spectrum of features for supercharging your business operations. It is important to first identify some of the high-level benefits for your organization.

Robust Product Management System

Accelerate product and service release cycle and drive your business directly to sales. The Connect platform provides robust functionality to automatically define your product information and specifications in multiple languages and brandings.

Connect features a flexible offer bundling functionality and allows distributing products through multiple marketplaces and sales channels. Get ahead of competition by featuring any type of product or service, including:

Recurring Products

On-demand Products

Pay-as-you-go Products

- Recurring: Cloud services, subscriptions, cloud-based security software, and so on.
- On-demand: Physical goods, on-premises software licenses, etc.
- Pay-as-you-go: Telecommunication metering, infrastructure-as-a-service consumption, utilities, and more.

Discover new revenue and opportunities for your featured products. The Connect platform allows enhancing your sale chain and distributing your selected products or services through multiple resellers.

Subscription and Fulfillment Excellence

Optimize all your business operations and build a strong relationship with your partners and customers with subscription management automation. CloudBlue Connect skyrockets your order management capabilities and provides the functionality to grow your product purchases into recurring revenue. Get full control over orders, renewals, changes and adjustments in subscriptions, and other requests within all your sales channels from one place.

The Connect platform also provides additional features to streamline your subscription and fulfillment management. Registering and managing information on your customers and resellers, consolidating usage data that is associated with a particular subscription, adopting service level management, just to name a few. Connect allows executing actions automatically at specific times every day, or on particular day of week or month. Note that fulfillment operations can also be automated with APIs, webhooks, or extensions.

Expansion and Customization

CloudBlue Connect is a highly expandable platform that can be customized to fit for your specific requirements across all business flows. A comprehensive list of integration options helps automating manual grunt work and eliminating manual errors from critical processes. Connect allows using any integration methods that is suitable for your organization:

- Manual: Integration scenarios that include native capabilities of Connect Portals.
- Extensions: Prebuilt software packages that integrate Connect with other systems.
- SDK and Tools: Native bindings of REST API to various programming environments.
- REST API: Set of functions to access features and data of Connect modules.
