Distributors and Vendors sign their program contracts to set business partnerships through the CloudBlue Connect platform. Signed program contracts enable Distributors to cooperate with Vendors and consequently activate Distribution Contracts. Furthermore, note that signing program contracts allows Vendors to activate the Vendor Portal on the Connect platform.

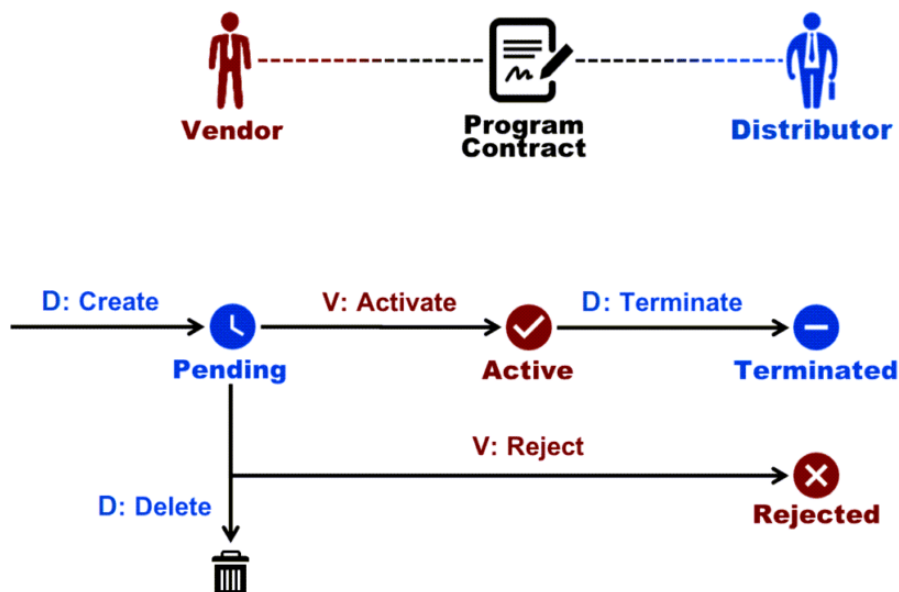

Program Agreement is Required!

In case a program agreement is not presented, Distributors can create this agreement as described below: Creating Program Agreements. Alternatively, Distributors can generate program agreement and program contracts while creating a Vendor-type Partner account via the Directory tab.

State Flow

A program contract between a Distributor and a Vendor changes its state as follows:

1. Pending: This state indicates that a Distributor created a new contract for a Vendor.
2. Active: This status is shown once Vendor accepted this contract.
3. Terminated: In case Distributor terminates this contract, the system displays this contract status.
4. Rejected: If a Vendor rejects this contract that is created by a Distributor, the system assigns this status to the contract.

Note

Distributors can delete a pending program contract. Thus, the system removes the deleted contract from the database.

Distributors can also terminate activated contracts. In contrast, Connect stores terminated contracts and enables users to view the contract data.

Distributor Portal

Distributors can create program contracts, invite Vendors and manage their contracts via the Contracts tab from the Partners module.

The following instructions showcase how to create a program contract, access invitation link and manage created contracts on the Connect platform.

Creating Program Contracts

Once a program agreement is generated, Distributors can create a program contract by accessing the Partners module and navigating to the Contracts tab.

Click the Create Contract button to launch a contract creation wizard.
